As the hours unfolded and the world learned of the grisly attacks Friday in Paris, Jean Julien was hanging onto his radio, listening to every single word. Is severe weather happening where you are? CNN wants to hear your story. Share your photos and stories with the upload button below, or tag them on Twitter or Instagram with the hashtag #CNNiReport or #CNNWeather. When newsmakers and notable figures die, many of us turn to the internet as a way to pay tribute to those who have passed away. Do you have a loved one serving in the U.S. military? Send them a salute! Share your pictures and videos of the troops you love or put yourself on camera and include a shout-out. Hundreds of likes on an Instagram picture of a perfectly posed, blond woman in a bikini might lead some to believe that she is confident and has a perfect life. But behind the scenes, Essena O'Neill says, she felt like a lost and lonely teenager. Maria Garza lost both parents when she was very young, but they are never far from her memory. This time of year is particularly ripe for reminiscing about her mother and father as she celebrates Dia de los Muertos, or Day of the Dead. You can see Donald Trump's face almost everywhere this campaign season. Here's proof. If you're traveling around Japan's countryside in late summer, don't be alarmed if you see a bunch of creepy mannequin heads staring at you from the fields. The first American theme park devoted to Thomas the Tank Engine and his locomotive friends opened Saturday in Massachusetts, promising to be a popular attraction with the preschool set. Two Oklahoma boys are in the hospital recuperating from burns after their mother said their day care took them to a splash park and let them play with no sunscreen. As of Tuesday, the day care was permanently closed, and the state health department was investigating the facility. Severe weather can be devastating, but it can also sometimes prove just how beautiful nature can be. Tuesday night on the East Coast, the sky turned one heck of a rainbow of crazy colors after violent storms rolled through. CNN photographers and viewers shared their best shots on Instagram, putting the #nofilter hashtag on full display. It was to be a night of Wonder Bread on burgers with mayo, a jumping contest and a group watching of "Friends," but "Caucasian Heritage Night" will never be. A child plays on a war tank. It was only a matter of time before social media infiltrated Fleet Week New York, the annual celebration of sailors, Marines and Coast Guardsmen leading up to Memorial Day. You might call her a watchdog, because this Boston area Doberman really has a thing for timepieces. It was like a scene out of "Make Way for Ducklings" on Tuesday on a rainy street in Washington. CNN Situation Room correspondent Brian Todd and photojournalist Khalil Abdallah were on their way to interview a legal analyst on L Street NW when they happened on a brood of baby ducks causing a stir. Icelandic photographer Sigga Ella wanted to show that people with Down syndrome are more than a chromosomal abnormality. They are diverse and they're unique, just like everyone else in the world. Could it get any cuter than seal pup kisses? The U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. Department of Interior this week shared a photo of a Weddell seal nuzzling up to what looked to be its mom in Erebus Bay, Antarctica. By the time Cynthia Falardeau read about Alex Pring, a little boy who got a battery-powered robotic arm last summer, she had made peace with her son Wyatt's limb difference. Since Friday, social media debates such as #thedress were silenced. Even the grungiest rock stars have owned credit cards. When Talia Howard's beloved pup Bongo was diagnosed with a progressive disease of the spinal cord five years ago, the Michigan woman was crushed. My parents, Shanthi and C. S.
